LOOKING AHEAD

Connecting the university to the community is a hallmark of Dr. Lowry's presidency. He views the city of Nashville as the university's campus and the world as its classroom. Not long after his arrival on the Lipscomb campus he proposed a $54 million plan to dramatically advance Lipscomb's academic programs and to invest in new campus facilities. During his tenure a new College of Pharmacy has been established creating the first Lipscomb doctorate degree, sixteen new graduate programs have been developed, and four new institutes have been founded including the Dean Institute for Corporate Governance and Integrity, the Institute for Conflict Management, the Institute for Law, Justice and Society and the Institute for Sustainable Practice.

Service is an important aspect of life at Lipscomb. President Lowry believes that for service to be meaningful, however, the university community must also engage with the city. Lipscomb is the first university in Nashville with a service-learning requirement for all of its undergraduate students providing tens of thousands of hours of service to more than 75 community organizations.

What does the next five years look like?

President Lowry: We're calling our vision "Lipscomb: Next" and have committed to investing $125 million in the university by our 125th anniversary in 2016. Now while we know our destination, the exact route is still being mapped out. However, our plan will include these items:

Significant growth in our endowment

Very intentional growth in how we challenge students to lives of faith, beyond required Bible classes and chapel attendance

Academic growth in all areas, but especially in health sciences, business, education and counseling

New educational "products" to attract more graduate and nontraditional students to faith-based education

Growth in our "non-classroom" student experience so it, too, will build faith and futures

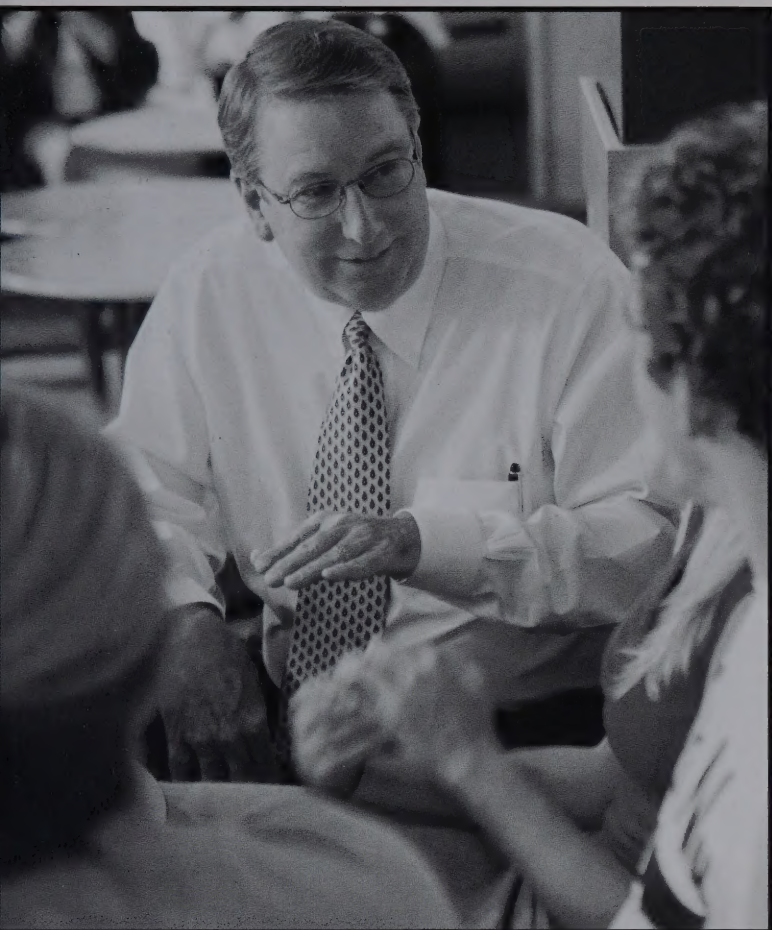

Growth in financial aid resources to create greater access for great students

Expansion of our development leadership as we reach out to donors, alumni and other faithful friends who understand the life-changing, soul-changing and community-changing impact of our mission

The "bumper sticker" dream we are moving toward is that by 2016, Lipscomb University will be a nationally recognized leader in quality higher education that is financially strong, employs nationally recognized faculty working in 21st-century facilities and serves 5,000 students who are intentionally, courageously and graciously Christian.

Well, that's a pretty long bumper sticker, but quite a dream—and a very reachable dream in my estimation! Let me point out that in 2005, there were not many who thought we would be able to invest what amounted to a million dollars a month in this university. But our faculty, staff, donors and alumni did it.

Our history reflects our commitment to the future of this university. We have a founder who confronted the prevailing winds of his time, we have 16 presidents before me who led the college to success in challenging moments, and we have a faith and faith community that is ageless. We're in a good place. A very good place.

PRESIDENT L. RANDOLPH LOWRY

LOOKING WITHIN

WHERE IT ALL BEGAN...

David Lipscomb and James A. Harding established Lipscomb University as the Nashville Bible School on Oct. 5, 1891. Despite their choice of name for the institution, both men were eager to extend to an undeserved region the type of education they had received — a broad-based liberal arts curriculum presented in a Christian context.

CHAPEL

I love being able to look around and see our students worshipping or just soaking in God's Spirit. Our students have such a passion and desire for finding more, and for seeing God's spirit working, it's such a blessing to be able to foster that desire on occasion. Our whole emphasis is based on

Spiritual formation... I hope and constantly pray that every Chapel opportunity is another chance for students to come to know our God even more. I have had such an amazing experience here and Chapel had so much to do with that, hoping I can just pass that along now! Lipscomb students have such a passion for serving the community and world. Our students have gone to so many lengths to serve the city and serve through mission trips or on their own time. From homeless ministry, to Spirit-led conversations in bars, to volunteering in kitchens on Thanksgiving... We have over 3,000 hours logged each semester of different ways that our students have been jumping in to serve! - Keela Evans

CAMPUS MINISTERS

April Easley

2010-Present

Jason Parker

2009-Present

I cherish my relationships with all of the students on this campus so much. I probably most enjoy when a student comes into my office or we go get ice cream, and I just get to hear about their struggles and heartaches and successes. I also just really enjoy getting to watch growth in life and love for Christ just spring up out of a student's heart. It's so beautiful. Oh, and don't let me forget women's chapel. I love women's chapel! Basically the goal of my job is to create a place for the women on this campus to grow and thrive in their relationship with Christ and with each other and help them discover their talents and passions. So that includes a lot of mentoring, counseling, event planning, and small groups. My job also involves working hand in hand with the chapel program, even teaching one myself. And also, my job involves just having fun and helping to develop the community on this campus even further. It has been so fun to watch Lipscomb grow just over the number of years that I have been involved with the school in some capacity. I smile when I think about how much our students are constantly growing in their love for God and people, but that's something that I pray continues to grow with each and every class. I also hope that Lipscomb continues to grow in faith and community-involvement. I just look around and see potential everywhere I look, so I never want us to take it for granted! I also hope to keep watching the grad program grow and the undergrad class selection grow. And I can't wait to watch us grow in passion for Christ and acting upon it! Meet, speak to, and even take to lunch the person sitting beside you in class, even if you have never spoken a word to each other before. They are another fellow struggler in this world and may need you to be the hands and feet of Christ to them. But you'll never know if you don't take advantage of them being placed in the desk beside you. - April Easley

I enjoy getting to tell students the good news of Jesus Christ, the truth that we are made in the image of GOD, that we are precious and loved by Him to a degree that we cannot understand, and that He longs for us to know Him and choose Him! My job involves praying and listening to what GOD desires for Lipscomb, and how He wants me to be involved with that plan. We get to dream big, create, organize, and run events that we believe will further bring the heart of Jesus to the heart of Lipscomb. Our desire is to help students connect with Christ and with one another. My hope is that Lipscomb will be filled with people that seek and love Christ with everything, that serve and love one another fully, and desire to show those in this world the healing love of GOD. I desire for all of us to learn what it means to lay down our lives, plans, and agendas for Jesus - and in learning to do that, our hearts and lives will transform as we become more like Him. And its then that this school, this city, and this world will begin to change. Don't worry and don't be filled with fear. This is something that I have always struggled with and I still struggle with it today. I worried about picking the right college, picking the right major, picking the right classes, making the perfect grades, making a specific score on the GRE, getting into the right grad school, getting the right job, etc. No one ever told me, "It's ok if you don't know what the next step is...it's ok if you don't know what you want to do for the next 5 years or even the next 40 years." But it's ok, and it will be ok...you'll be ok and you'll make it. I try very hard to lay down my fears, anxieties, and struggles, ask that GOD help me with everything that I'm dealing with, learn to let go of my worries, realize that not everything is a major concern, and for those that are major - I ask for GOD to help me navigate through them. - Jason Parker

MOVING FORWARD

THE INSTITUTE FOR CHRISTIAN SPIRITUALITY nurtures the personal discipleship of Christ's followers by cultivating a deeper awareness and participation in the Holy Spirit's redemptive activity among us, within us, and through us in the world. ICS pursues this mission by exploring spiritually forming practices and facilitating the journey with others through spiritual friendships and spiritual direction.

The Institute for Christian Spirituality (ICS) is in its infancy stage, but we are already seeing God's hand in its growth. We are beginning a number of new programs to operate alongside our Growing Deeper Spiritually Program and our Spiritual Direction Program. We're looking at ways that we can increase our offerings to Lipscomb faculty, staff, and students, to the Nashville community and beyond. It's exciting to be a part of it! - Dr. Jackie Halstead

The Institute, in partnership with the Hazelip School of Theology, offers masters and diploma programs designed to deepen the spiritual life of participants so that they in turn can live more fruitful lives as servants in the kingdom of God. Each program integrates experiential and scholarly training, preparing students to serve the kingdom missionally in both professional and lay ministries such as preaching, youth work, adult ministries, spiritual direction, leadership, mentoring, and discipleship.

JAMES D. HUGHES CENTER FOR ART AND ENGINEERING

After $4.4 million in construction, the James D. Hughes Center, facing Belmont Boulevard, leads Lipscomb's next phase of construction north of the present campus. The 25,300 square-foot-building was named for the late James D.

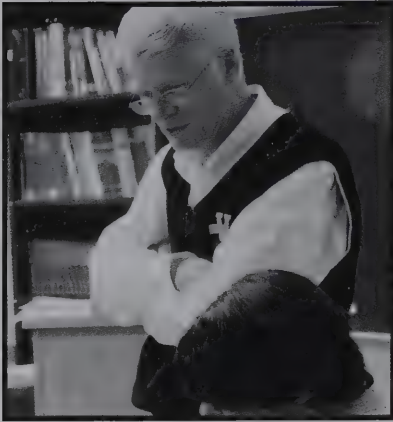

Hughes, director of art education for Metropolitan Nashville Public Schools for nearly 30 years. It houses the Department of Art and the Raymond B. Jones College of Engineering. The center was designed by Tuck Hinton Architects: Seab Tuck, principal, and Chuck Miller, project manager.

The James D. Hughes building includes:

- The John C. Hutcheson Gallery on the main floor
- Ceramics, sculpture, drawing, painting, mixed media and printmaking studios all bathed in natural light from a skylight
- An outdoor sculpture work area
- A photography darkroom
- A laboratory for robotic systems engineering
- A renewable energy technologies laboratory
- Two Learning Labs especially designed for collaborative and interdisciplinary instruction
- Interactive technology for small groups to work together using a MediaScope computer system

What got me involved in the program . . . In 2003 I helped launch a similar venture over at Riverbend Maximum Security Institution for the Vanderbilt Divinity School. The benefits for all involved in that program seemed so significant, that it seemed LU should have the experience too.

What's the most important thing . . . Our society spends considerable time and energy creating distance between folks. Whether our divisions are racial, economic, gender, ideological or whatever, we are all too adept at pushing others away. At the heart of the Christian message, however, is the ministry of reconciliation. In that light, a goal for all in the LIFE community--whether they reside "there" or "here"--is simply to reduce the distance between us and our neighbors. - Dr. Richard Goode

The students--both inside and outside, as someone mentioned, both groups are the cream of the crop. It takes a special openness and heart to want to study in that environment and I have had my eyes opened to the quality of the people who are in prison. Yes, they've committed a crime, but they continue to change and evolve over the years as we all do and they are really amazing.

My dream for this program is that it will continue without a hitch and that more and more students (both inside and outside) will find their way to the program. I know it has changed the lives of both populations and statistics show that education leads to a lowering of recidivism. - Dr. Jackie Halstead

Teaching at TPW challenges almost every topic one covers in a class about society and law because you are forced to think of every topic in the context and from the perspective of your students, a perspective that is too often marginalized, forgotten and ignored. The differences between you and your students are more stark at TPW than they are in the traditional class, which makes the seeking of common ground is incredibly important and incredibly rewarding. The students are all so engaged and hungry to learn. They are also hungry to teach, and I always learn a great deal about myself, my society and my faith by being out there.

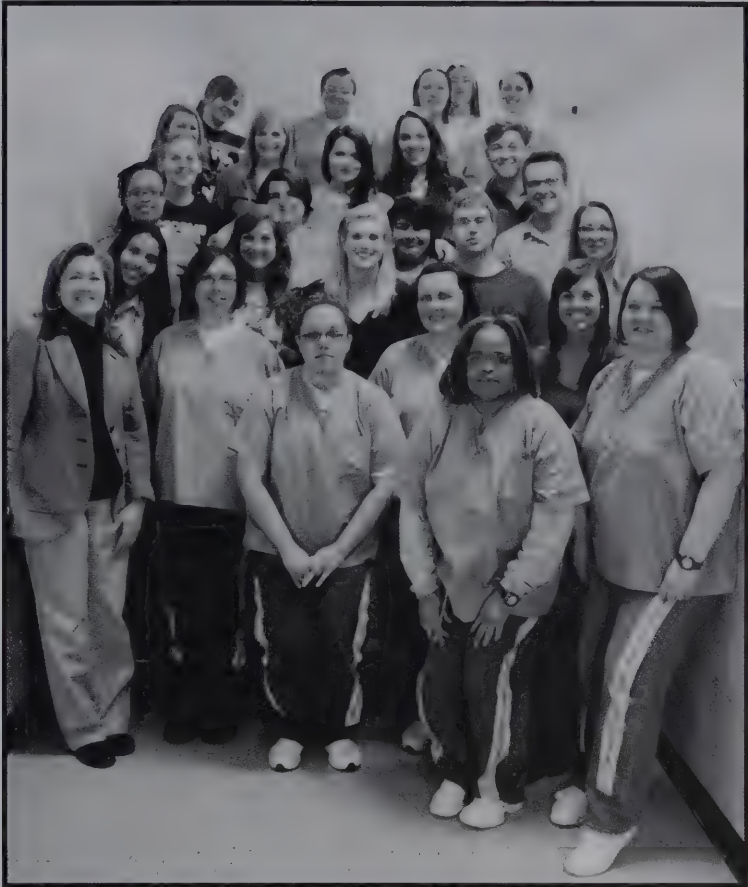

Dr. Randy Spivey

I would like to see Lipscomb's involvement with TPW expand and Lipscomb begin to partner with the prison in every way it possibly can. I would like to see Lipscomb's fine arts and music programs offer performances, exhibitions and classes at TPW, I would like to see Lipscomb's education program assist the education program at TPW in teaching, tutoring and guiding the women at TPW who are not yet ready to pursue college classes. In short, I would like for TPW to be overrun by offers of assistance in all forms from Lipscomb. - Dr. Randy Spivey

ENGAGING THE COMMUNITY

Yellow Ribbon Benefit Concert

Operation Yellow Ribbon is a fund-raising event on the Lipscomb University campus featuring a star-studded benefit concert in Allen Arena for Lipscomb's Yellow Ribbon tuition program and Middle Tennessee's nonprofits serving military veterans.

Lighting of the Green

A little rain didn't stop Lipscomb University from celebrating the start of the 2010 Christmas season in style. The sixth annual Lighting of the Green, Tuesday, Nov. 30, brought Christmas cheer to Nashville this year from inside Allen Arena. This year host Amy Grant included various family members in the show including daughter Sarah Chapman, singing "Baby, It's Cold Outside," and youngest daughter Corinna Gill singing a rousing version of "Jingle Bells" that got the entire audience clapping. Special guest Susan Ashton stopped the show with a performance of "Oh Holy Night" backed up by the David Lipscomb High School Chorus and the Lipscomb University A Cappella Singers, and special guest Dave Barnes performed selected songs from his new Christmas album. A multi-generational ensemble from the Amun Ra Theatre's Black Nativity Celebration 2010 added to the mix with a performance of the spiritual "Go Tell It on the Mountain." Lighting of the Green's traditional activities – free cookies and hot chocolate and free photos with Santa, were supplemented this year with the Merry Marketplace, a first time event featuring various local vendors selling goodies to support scholarships to Lipscomb.

Socrates said that the unexamined life is not worth living; philosophy encourages us to live the examined life. It is the search for meaning and truth, and includes the study of the history of ideas as well as critical thinking about contemporary issues. Philosophy is an academic discipline in that it is the study of the history of thought. Philosophy is also a way of thinking, encouraging a rational and critical approach to all our experience. At Lipscomb, students interested in philosophy take courses offered by Dr. William Collins.

COLLEGE OF
BIBLE & MINISTRY

Dean of the College of Bible and Ministry

Terry Briley

The Bible program works in conjunction with other dimensions of the Lipscomb experience to encourage the spiritual formation of our students. The study of the Bible must not be seen as an end itself, but as the basis of living one's faith. Lipscomb provides a wide variety of opportunities for students to express their faith in worship and service. The goal is for all Lipscomb graduates to develop a biblical perspective and to nurture habits that they will take with them for the rest of their lives.

The unique mission of the College of Business is to equip future leaders with both professional skills and a strong sense of integrity. For 120 years, it has been the purpose of the college to teach students how to do things right and to consider what the right thing to do should be in each and every demanding circumstance of business and life. The college takes as its mission the words of Psalm 78:74, "And David shepherded them with integrity of the heart; with skillful hands he led them." The objective of the college is to train students to have both the skills and integrity to lead.

A team of Lipscomb University finance students turned in a winning portfolio in the 2010 TVA Investment Challenge competition. This was the first, first-place finish in the 25-university competition that uses investment funds provided by the Tennessee Valley Authority to institutions in TVA's region. The annual competition allows students to act as portfolio managers for those funds, giving them a real-world experience with dramatic feedback based on gains and losses.

The College of Business also includes the Dean Institute for Corporate Governance and Integrity. The Dean Institute is a national forum that integrates best practices in corporate governance with integrity and faith for public and private company executives, board members and other top-tier corporate leaders. The Institute is funded by an endowment previously established at Lipscomb by Hilton and Sallie Dean. Hilton Dean is a retired vice chairman of Ernst & Young, LLP, New York, and is currently chairman of the Lipscomb University Board of Trustees.

Within Lipscomb's Christian academic community and the larger educational community, the mission of the teacher education program is C.A.R.E., that is, to prepare caring leaders who: practice their craft in an exemplary manner, possess attitudes and values worth of imitation, relate to members of all communities within the educational experience, and demonstrate knowledge essential for the profession.

The College of Education seeks to continue a tradition of excellence, but has an even greater mission - a mission that includes not only providing exceptional service to the local Lipscomb community, but also exceptional service to the broader community in which we live. At its core, the College of Education is dedicated to improving educational opportunities for all students by educating teacher-leaders, engaging with the community, and enriching the lives of future and current teachers.

Since the department emphasizes in-school experience, the department's students visit and participate in area school activities throughout their time at Lipscomb. In addition, both students and faculty make alternating trips in May to work in a two-week program with Native American students in South Dakota or with Spanish-speaking students in Lima, Peru. This program is offered in the two locations as part of the Cultural Perspectives course.

The Raymond B. Jones College of Engineering provides students with an excellent opportunity to prepare for an exciting engineering career in an educational environment that also encourages Christian character and spiritual growth. In creating this opportunity for students, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jones have built upon the original goals of Lipscomb University that "such other branches of learning may be added...as will promote usefulness and good citizenship among men." In keeping with that goal, graduate of the Raymond B. Jones College of Engineering will be challenged to use their engineering education for the betterment of society, their profession and their church.

Feed the Children is a Christian, international, nonprofit relief organization that delivers food, medicine, clothing and other necessities to individuals, children and families who lack these essentials due to famine, war, poverty or natural disaster.

The SALT program seeks to establish partnerships and develop service-learning projects that are beneficial to both community partners and Lipscomb students and faculty. Here students are pictured packing and loading vital supplies that will be delivered to those who need them.

SALT

SALT (Serving and Learning Together) is an academic service-learning program designed to enhance the educational experience of undergraduate students at Lipscomb University. Through the SALT program, students have the opportunity to work on a wide variety of extracurricular and co-curricular projects that will impact the community, connect academic ideas they are learning in the classroom to real world experiences, help them develop marketable job skills and network with professionals in the community.

Students can choose from projects of varying intensities that focus on issues ranging from homelessness to literacy to hunger. From business students organizing and executing a career workshop for at-risk youth in the community to education students working in local schools to promote literacy, we are working to incorporate service-learning into every discipline at Lipscomb.

Many of the trails at the popular Radnor Lake State Natural Area were washed out by the torrential rains and flooding this past May. Lipscomb students stepped up to the challenge and partnered with rangers and community volunteers to help rebuild the trails. Students were also given the opportunity to put the scientific knowledge they were learning in the classroom to the test and observe many of the natural, scientific processes as a result of the floods.

The volunteer project was part of the Lipscomb University Integrated Science courses, taught by Dr. Ben Hutchinson and Professor Tamera Klinbyll. Integrated Science courses allow non-science majors a general education science option based on an experiential, hands-on approach to learning.

This fall, the local service fair brought 60 nonprofit groups from the Nashville community to campus to educate students about volunteer opportunities available in their organizations, with hopes of recruiting reliable student volunteers.

Selfless service is ingrained in Lipscomb students from the first week they are on campus. Before classes even begin, students are asked to participate in a service day before freshman orientation," says Christin Shatzer, director of the SALT program. This fall, 13 organizations hosted volunteers and over 381 students participated in service activities.

SALT SCHOLARS

The ultimate level of a student's academic involvement in service-learning is represented by attaining the designation of SALT scholar, a reflection of significant participation in service-learning activities.

The SALT scholar is a student who has become an expert in service-learning in the context of our campus and whose investment in service-learning experiences reflects an obvious academic interest in serving others and learning from that service.

Students who become SALT scholars will have the opportunity to participate as leaders in Lipscomb's service-learning program. At graduation, SALT scholars will be designated in special ways, both in graduation regalia and on the graduation program.

To become a SALT scholar a student must:

Participate in at least one SALT service day experience

Complete one SALT course (this course must be separate from a SALT mission experience, SALT internship, or SALT cooperative)

Participate in at least one of the following: SALT mission experience, SALT internship, SALT cooperative

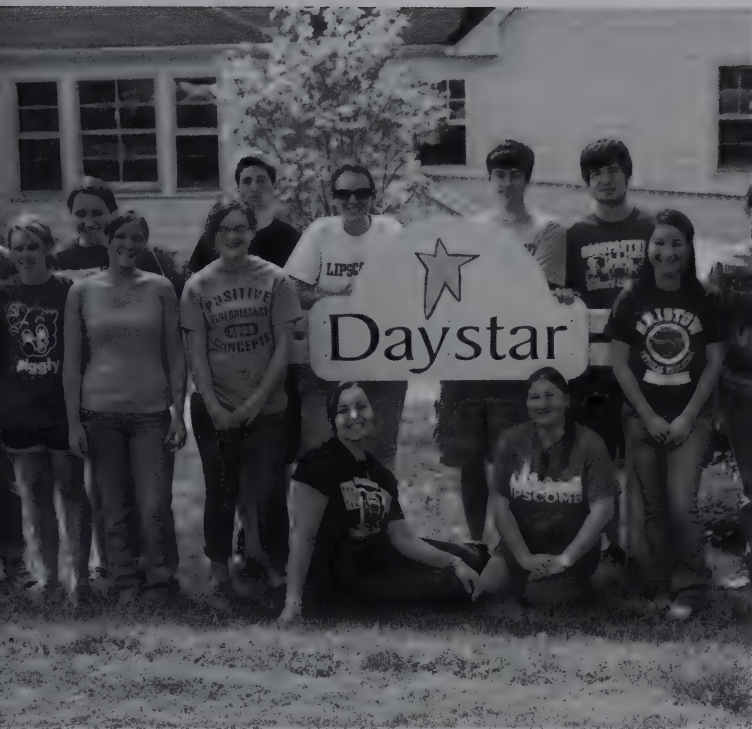

Complete a SALT capstone experience by developing, planning, and executing an individual service-learning experience in association with a university faculty member and the SALT Center director.

THE HONORS COLLEGE

The Honors College seeks to provide excellent students with unique opportunities for intellectual challenge and growth. Classes are kept small in order that students and faculty members may exchange ideas in a format conducive to free discussion. Professors are chosen for their ability to inspire students to think and work independently and creatively, to develop intellectual curiosity, to express their ideas clearly and logically, and to respect the ideas of others. The college also encourages students to develop significant research with other students and faculty. In addition to the formal academic areas, the college seeks to help students develop by providing opportunities to attend musicals, plays, concerts, operas, lectures and art exhibits. Here students are pictured enjoying some of these extracurricular activities.

GRADUATE STUDIES

Over the past few years, Lipscomb University has seen rapid growth and development in the graduate studies area. New graduate programs have been added each year, and the university community has enjoyed welcoming more and more graduate and professional students onto campus.

Currently, the university offers graduate studies in the following areas:

Business, Conflict Management, Exercise & Nutrition Science, Pharmacy, Psychology, and Sustainability

It's an exciting time to be part of graduate studies at Lipscomb University!

"The post-baccalaureate degree is, by nature, distinct from the baccalaureate experience. First, it places heavier emphasis on research and reflective thinking. Second, the post-baccalaureate curriculum provides greater depth of education and aims at building specialized skills. Third, it engenders a sense of creative independence that prepares the student to function in an area of work and to contribute to a profession or field of scholarship. Post-baccalaureate education provides a valuable credential in a professional journey."

Dr. Randy Bouldin

The mission for the Lipscomb University College of Pharmacy is to provide an educational environment characterized by academic excellence and Christian faith, where student pharmacists are prepared to optimize patient medication outcomes in an ethical and compassionate practice..

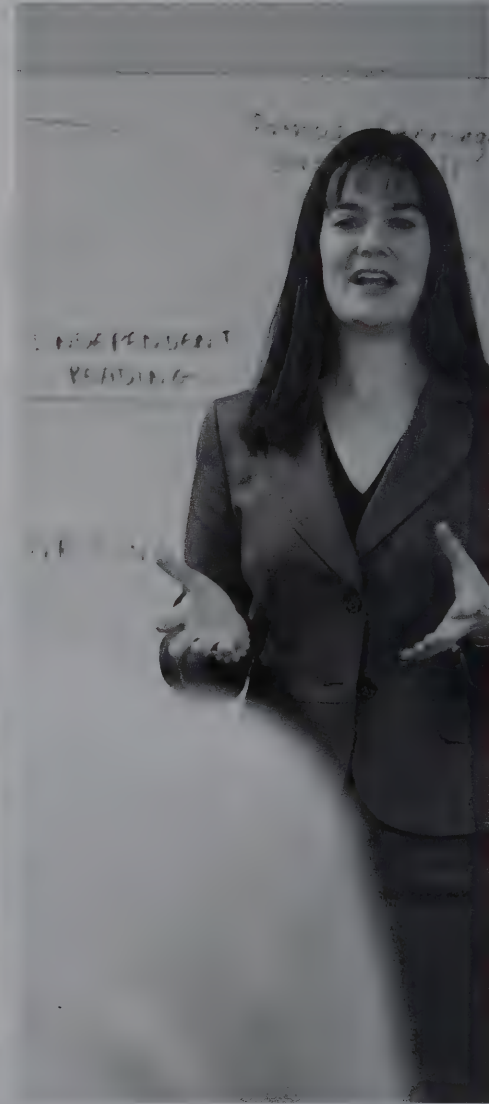

Lipscomb University's Institute for Conflict Management (ICM) provides academic and business specific resources to equip student, organizations and professionals with skills to minimize the costs of unresolved conflict.

THE GRADUATE EXPERIENCE

LIPSCOMB IN VIENNA

Lipscomb University's Office of Global Learning provides students with the opportunities to develop a global perspective, a keen awareness of the larger world in which we live, and a deep global and biblical understanding of who our neighbors are. In support of these goals, the Office of Global Learning offers several meaningful international learning experiences to undergraduate students. These short, mid-length and semester long trips integrate personal faith and Christian service into the learning experiences.

Incorporated in the Vienna and Santiago trips is the World Humanities course which is based on a multidisciplinary approach to understanding the human condition, exploring key periods, perspectives and issues central to the places in which students are located. Insights from disciplines such as history, art, communications, politics and and business shed light on the many factors that define a culture and on the interrelationships of these factors. The instructors make extensive use of local culture and resources to facilitate experiential learning.

In the fall students have the opportunity to spend the better part of the semester in Vienna, Austria. Vienna has been ranked as one of the most livable cities in the world.

Facts About Vienna

Full Country Name: Republic of Austria

Population: 8.02 million

Language: German, English, Turkish, Slovenian and Croatian

This past fall students had the opportunity, for the first time, to participate in a semester-long study abroad opportunity in South America.

The program was based in Chile's largest city and capital, Santiago, a beautiful city of six million inhabitants.

Program participants enjoyed excursions into the Atacama Desert, Easter Island and Patagonia as well as language study at a local language school.

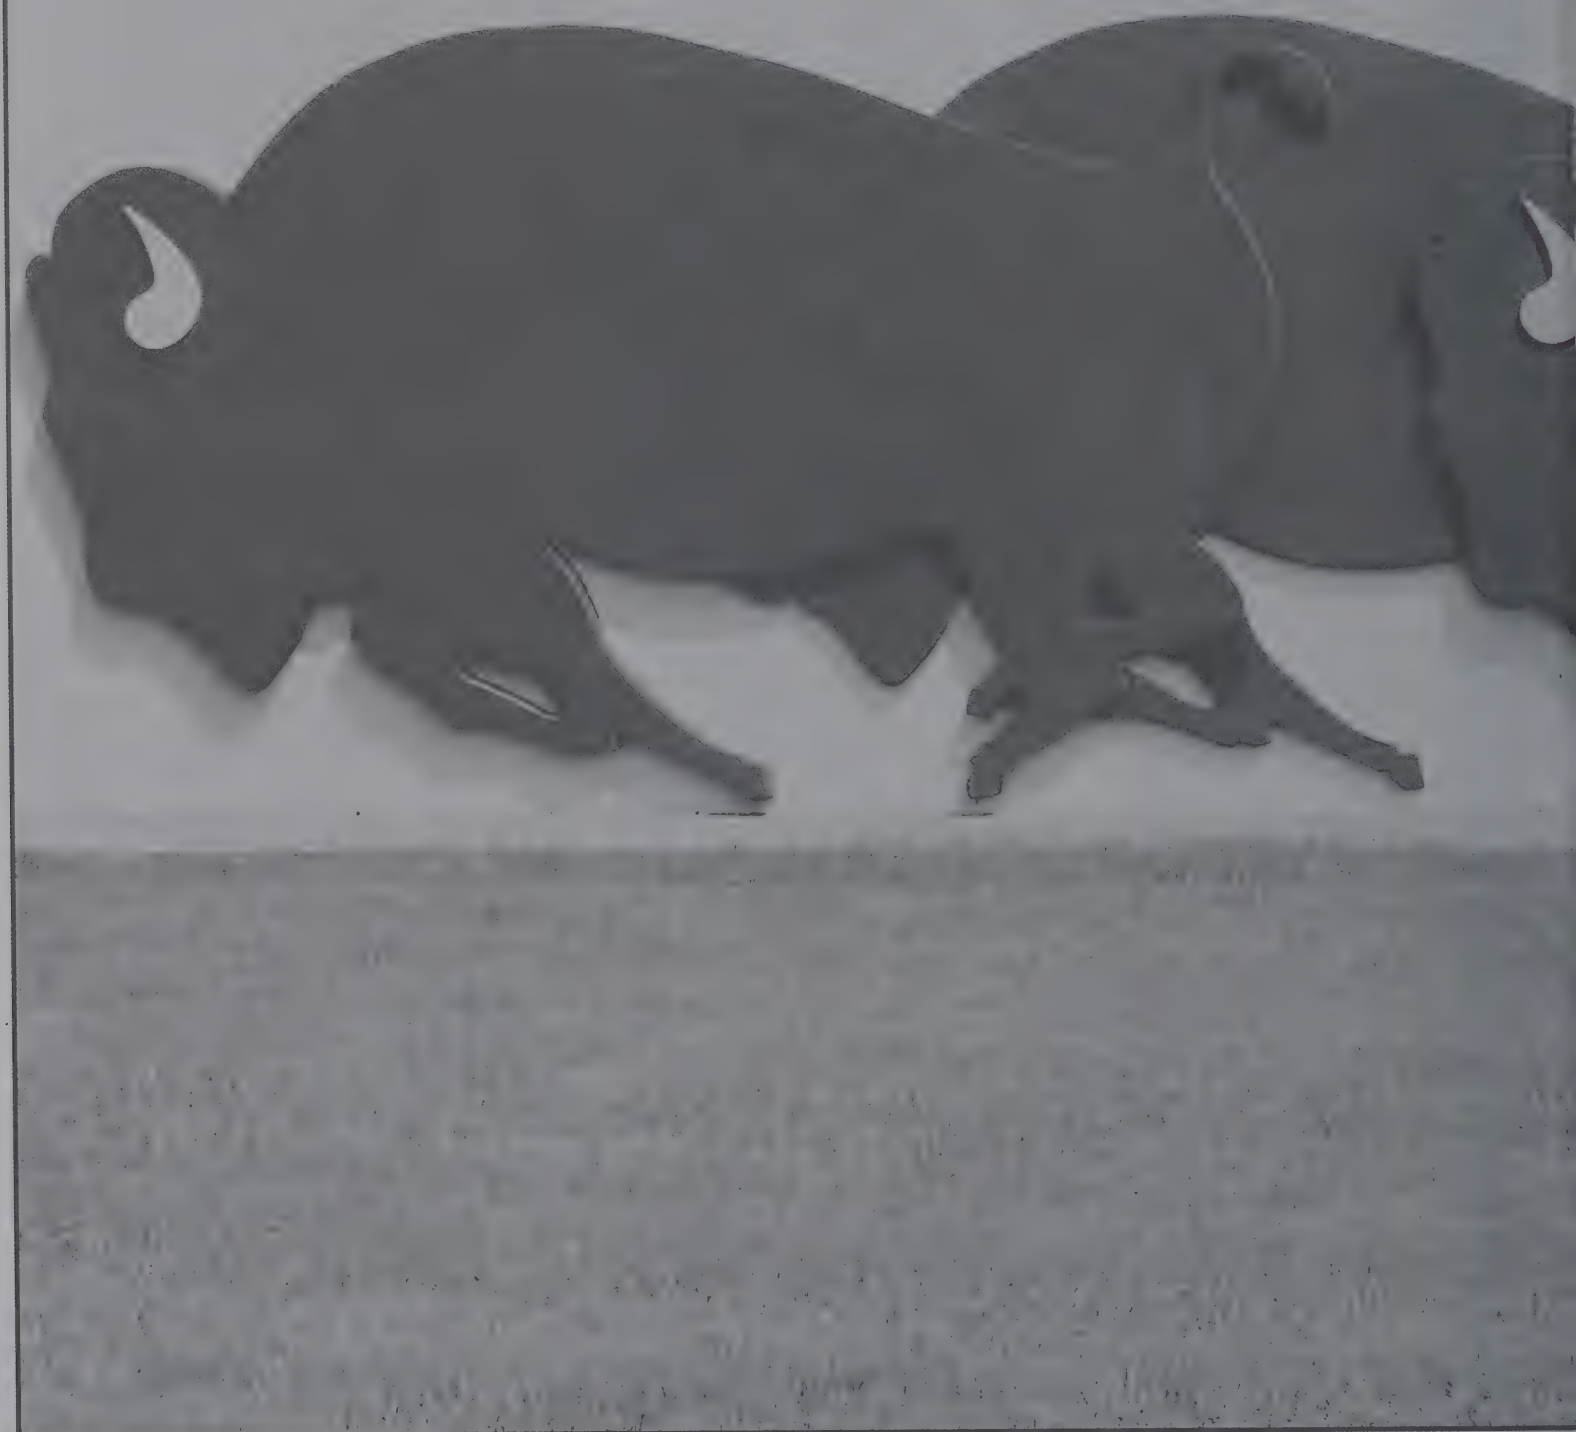

LIPSCOMB TRAVEL COURSES

In addition to the semester long offerings and short term trips, the university offers travel courses for students from a variety of disciplines. Business students have the opportunity to travel with professors to China or to Europe through the EU & You offering. Students interested in going deeper with their biblical studies are given the opportunity to travel to Greece. Education students visit Peru. Pictured here are students having a great experience as participants in travel courses.

SOCIAL CLUBS

Approximately one in five Lipscomb students is involved in a social club. The clubs are chartered to promote the spiritual mission of the school while providing avenues for social development on campus.

Currently, there are 12 social clubs overseen by the Office of Greek Life. Of those 12, the six women's social clubs include: Delta Omega, Delta Sigma, Delta Xi, Kappa Chi, Phi Sigma and Pi Delta. The men's social clubs include Sigma Omega Sigma, Delta Tau, Pi Delta,

Clubs participate in a variety of activities both on and off campus, including athletics, Singarama, formals and a variety of service projects.

LIPSOMB MISSIONS

The vision of the missions program at Lipscomb is to equip every student with the knowledge of God's word and His purpose along with a keen self-awareness which will lead him or her to identifying the plan God has for his or her life.

The focus of the missions, service and ministry at Lipscomb is to convince every student they are called to spread the message of God's love to the world, no matter what discipline of study they pursue or what vocation they choose.

The goal of Lipscomb university missions to help every student discover and develop his or her own personal ministry.

The tradition of missions has been long-standing in Lipscomb's history, and it continues even today. More and more opportunities for students to serve locally and around the world are added each year. This year, students had opportunities to participate in short-term fall break, winter break and spring break trips, as well as long term summer trips.

Opportunities for students to serve through international and local missions offered this past year, included:

Fall Break Mission Teams

Guatemala (Engineering)

Winter Break Mission Teams

New York City and Northern Ireland

Spring Break Mission Teams

Atlanta Inner City; Baja; City of Children; Cozumel; Dallas/ Ft. Worth; Dundee, Scotland; East Tennessee Habitat for Humanity; Guatemala (Coban, Medical); Honduras (Hillsboro Church of Christ); Honduras (Medical); Jamaica; Jellico, TN; New York City; Saba

Summer Mission Teams

Brisbane, Australia; City of Children; Germany; Ghana; Great Britain/Greece; Guatemala (Engineering); Haiti; Moldova; Newport, Wales; Northern Ireland; Perth, Australia; Peru; Saba

Pictured above and below are Lipscomb students and friends in the Village of Hope in Ghana, West Africa. The Village of hope is home to over 200 children and includes a medical and dental clinic, a church, a Christian academy, and staff and guest homes. While in Ghana, students seek to encourage and support staff and build long-term relationships with the children who make their home in Village of Hope. Students offer teach or tutor, assist in clinics and participate in community outreach programs.

Students are pictured with children from the City of Children in Ensenada, Mexico, a place just south of the California/Mexico border. Students who participate in the trip provide support and love for the City of Children through a variety of projects and activities.

The Brisbane, Australia trip provides a unique opportunity for Lipscomb students to make an impact in an urban context. The trip participants focus on recruiting for and facilitating Camp Orion, a five day outdoor evangelistic camp, as well as building and maintaining relationships with host families and church members in the community, as well as conducting a follow up vacation bible school after Camp Orion concludes.

For the past 10 years, Lipscomb has partnered with Baja Missions to encourage and assist local churches and the people of Baja California, Mexico. The Lipscomb team works specifically with the San Quintin Iglesia de Cristo, the southernmost of the efforts of Baja Missions. The main objectives of team members are to provide encouragement and community support through home visits, construction and maintenance work, food and clothing relief, and nightly classes for children, teens and adults.

Ciudad de Angeles is a Christian children's home on the island of Cozumel, just off the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico. Students who serve in this community do so through manual labor on the campus, by teaching the children, supporting the local community through outreach efforts, and working with the local church.

During fall break, an engineering focused team travels to the mountainous northern regions of Guatemala to participate in Project Ulpan. The goal of Project Ulpan is to provide community development support in the areas of water and public health, education, local economic development and human rights awareness and representation in order that each community member has access to a life of dignity. Pictured above and below are participants in the effort.

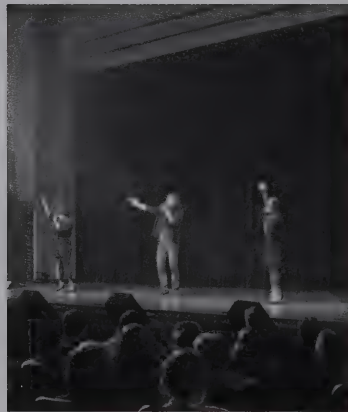

Students who have a love of both Europe and missions often choose to participate in the mission efforts in Germany. This particular mission effort serves the community of Hildesheim and the Gemeinde Christi congregation through community support activities such as facilitating a sports camp, helping maintain community buildings or reaching out to community youth.

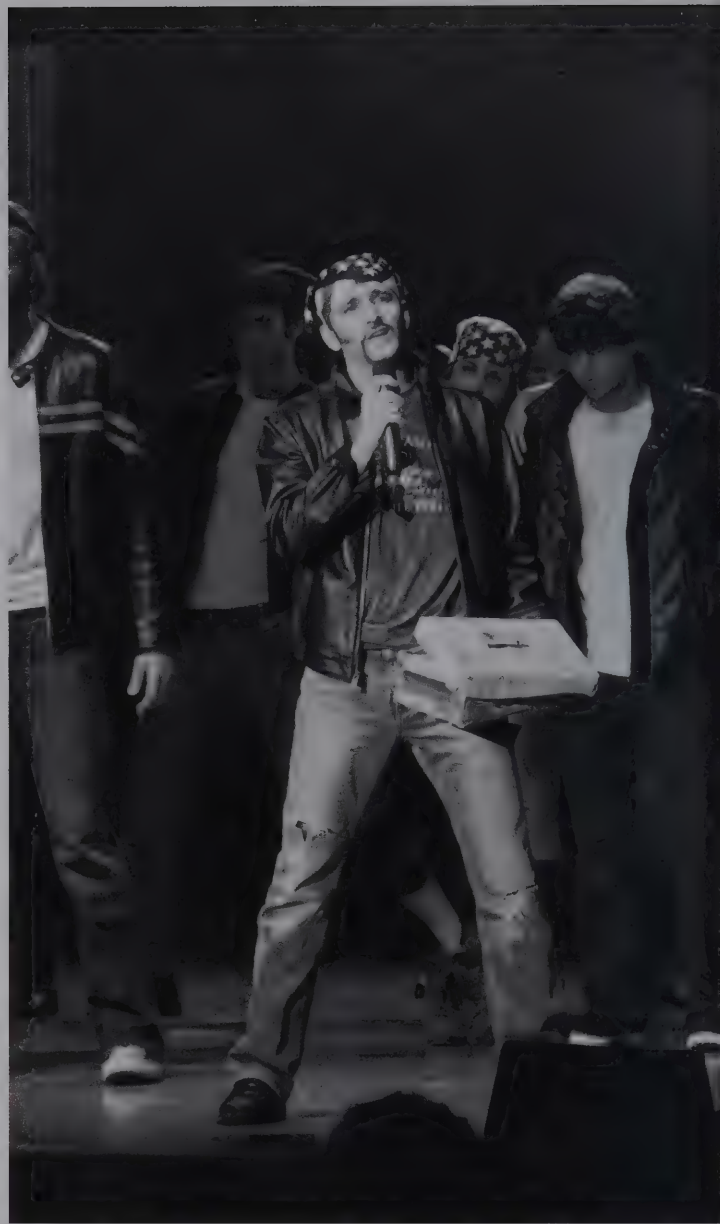

The Moldova mission effort is the only all female mission effort at Lipscomb. Throughout this trip, women serve other women in a region known for its great number of orphans and the epidemic of human trafficking. Lipscomb women partner with Justice and Mercy International to serve the Grace House, a transitional home for teenage girls. Team members serve the women through support and encouragement.

OIL SPILL IN THE GULF

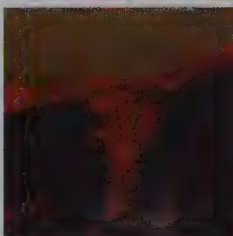

BRITISH PETROLEUM

CEO Tony Hayward testified before the House Energy and Commerce Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee. Hayward resigned from his post on July 27, 2010.

205 MILLION GALLONS

The amount of crude oil that spilled into the Gulf of Mexico made this the world's largest accidental oil spill in history. After five months, the well was declared "effectively dead."

THE PEOPLE SPEAK

BP station boycotts and anti-BP social media groups as well as traditional protests, like this one in Vienna, Austria, allowed people to make their feelings about the oil spill known.

BOUND TO HAPPEN

The follow-up report by the National Commission on the BP Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill and Offshore Drilling said 'systemic' problems caused the blowout/oil spill and only 'significant reform' could prevent future spills.

THE STATS

APRIL 20 2010

BP oil rig Deepwater Horizon exploded in the Gulf of Mexico, killing 11 men and injuring 17 workers. In late April, BP announced the resulting spill at more than 5,000 barrels (210,000 gallons) a day.

A NEW ESTIMATE

In June, the government announced other figures, estimating that 30,000-40,000 barrels (or more) of crude was gushing into the gulf each day.

COAST GUARD

The Coast Guard was the main effort working to clean up the spill by using the largest tugs in the Louisiana fleet.

For months, government forces were prevented or slow to help prevent any further spreading of the spill that threatened thousands in fish, game, and wildlife.

BP announced that they had spent more than $2 billion on cleanup efforts by June. The company had lost $2.1 billion since the spill.

APRIL 2010

The spill was able to recover the oil quickly from the leak site but BP's cleanup had slowed the public and the state could be seen as a

HOW TO PROPERLY WASH OIL-COVERED BIRDS

STEP 1

Gently flush eyes with warm saline solution. Swab oil from nostrils and bill. Remove any oil from stomach with tube.

STEP 2

Wash oil from body and wings with a dishwashing solution. Make sure to wipe the feathers in the direction they are growing.

STEP 3

Repeat 3-4 times until oil is completely washed away, then gently towel dry bird. Bird will be ready for release in 2-4 days.

Oil contamination is often deadly for birds if they are not properly washed and cared for. Oil reverses birds' water resistant feathers, making them vulnerable to temperature change. Oily feathers also make it impossible for birds to fly and can even drag them underwater to drown. The oil can also cause internal harm when birds try to preen the oil from their feathers. It can cause kidney, liver and reproductive damage, among other things.

Oil contamination worked on all kinds of wildlife affected by the spill. The processes for cleaning birds, turtles and dolphins varied, as did survivors' chances for recovery. Thousands of birds and dozens of turtles and dolphins perished. In addition to the casualties and the damage to wildlife, there are numerous other long-term effects. Human health issues included increased risk of cancer and other ailments, as well as escalated stress. Two of the region's other major industries (tourism and seafood) were shut down immediately and suffered lasting losses. Louisiana traditionally contributed a third of the nation's shrimp, oysters, crab and crawdads and, despite massive marketing campaigns, hotels and resorts on the gulf shore suffered decreased occupancy throughout the summer.

By June, 558,000 barrels had been collected from the water's surface and nearly 1,240 miles worth of booms had been set up to prevent oil from reaching the shoreline.

While four wildlife rehabilitation centers were established in response to the oil spill, 36 national wildlife sanctuaries were threatened.

Mexico, Norway, Canada and the Netherlands all donated equipment (such as the water-skimming system on the right) to aid in the clean-up efforts.

It was estimated that more than 125 miles of Louisiana shoreline was contaminated with the washed up crude oil.

Discoverer Enterprise, a deepwater drilling vessel, aided in recovering the spilled oil gushing from the leak site after a cap was placed in June.

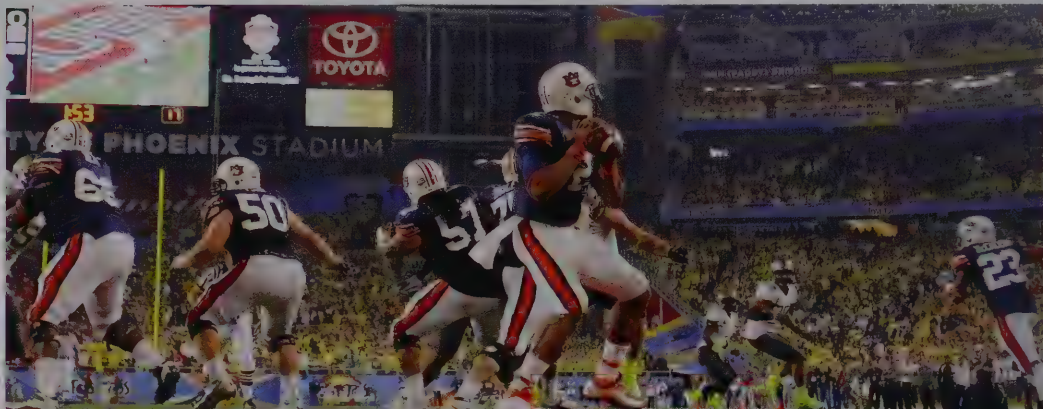

After nearly three months, the leak was finally capped, but not before the effects of the spill could be seen in photos that were taken from space.
